BEFORE HIGH COURT

By this time every Floridian knows what a "joke" or "joke" is. But nobody is certain of the proper spelling.

In his daily editorial feature, "Affairs of State," Kenneth B. J. Balinger of The Herald has contended that "joke" is the correct spelling for the sort of outlying dance hall with which Tallahassee has become famous.

Now the dictionary has the word "joke" or "joke," but it signifies to talk, as a partridge. It also carries the "joke" of the foot, which means a trick, artifice, or jest, or a jest.

There is, however, no "joke" or "joke" as known to the peculiar customs of the capital city. A new word seems to be making its way in this state. Who knows that it may transcend the boundaries of the colloquial and the provincial to become a part of the good American language which is ever seeking to add the graphic to its vocabulary.

Mr. Ballinger's contention for "joke" over "joke" has all the elements of a euphuism. Under his orthography, the term connotes something a little more dignified than the phlegmatic-looking terminology of "joke."

The matter has been before the Supreme court, where Justice Armstrong Brown took cognizance of the columnist's spelling. In the pleading of a case. Contending court informed the court that they had both spelled the use of "joke" in their briefs.

It was pointed out to the court that the name grew out of the "dab" balls which sprung up about Tallahassee during sessions of the legislature.

Justice Rivers Buford disclosed his knowledge of the spelling, questioning this source as the origin of the word. Speaking, of course, from hearsay only, the jurist stated that long before "white folk" started using the word there were negro joke joints as far back as I can remember.

In the interests of the lexicon, it is earnestly hoped that the eminent justices will agree on the spelling. Or, if they should fall into one of their split decisions, both sides to the controversy will be satisfied.

For then the purists can point to the Supreme court as authority that their spelling is correct.

This, may not satisfy Mr. Ballinger, or The Associated Press. But they can't without fear of contradiction, continue their more recent "joke" or "joke" or "joke" plan "joke" to those who go in for the phonetic, if not the euphuistic, in their spelling—Miami Herald.

The people of his district have delighted in hearing him detail first-hand information on a large variety of subjects of both local and national interest, and find a measure of high gratification in the courage he has displayed in representing their interests rather than going the easy way of rubber-stamping for acclaim elsewhere.

He will go to the special session with the best wishes for success from the entire population of his district, whose thousands know he will be their dainties and courage in the future as in the past—Palm Beach Post.

BACK TO WASHINGTON

Members of congress are packing their bags and making last farewells to their districts and states preparatory to answer the call of the special session which begins next week. Some 435 representatives and 96 senators will assemble at Washington on next Monday, a place they gladly deserted in number last week some ten weeks ago.

Whatever other members of congress may have done in this vacation period to instruct the people of their district and state, Congressman J. Mark Wilcox has been consistently active throughout the realm, and has carried his pronouncements on national questions into the utmost parts of Florida. The last public talk he will make, he has on Thursday night, which will serve as a patriotic address on Armistice Day, as well as a didactic talk on the new American Legion home.

While Mr. Wilcox has discussed a variety of subjects of national importance since the congressional exodus from Washington last August, he has been heartily in opposition to the proposed wage and hours bill pending in congress, and in his support of an anti-union bill.

He pointed out in the former the dangers which threaten our economic and social structure, with the aid of the bureaucrats are slowly but surely shortening regional, state and local governmental functions.

Points he raised were that a reduction of five men would cost wages and hours of workers in all industries; that there would be equalization of white and black, who would lose his job when his pay reached that of the white man; that he would be given preference; that eventual regulation of all industry, such as canning and growing citrus fruits and truck, retail stores and other businesses not now included in the proposed regulations; and the further opposition on the ground that the measure is roundly supported by John L. Lewis, who considers it only a "modest beginning" of what would be a vast and vital anti-board regulating industry necessary will regulate labor.

A courageous and righteous stand also has been taken by Congressman Wilcox for an adequate defense. The heaviest appropriations in American history were made at the recent congress for the defense of the United States. The building of these branches of defense is in progress. While the air defense at this time is insignificant, the Army and Navy, it is Mr. Wilcox's opinion that it should be a separate branch coordinating with both, and with numerous other vital and strategic points in the nation.

The people of his district have delighted in hearing him detail first-hand information on a large variety of subjects of both local and national interest, and find a measure of high gratification in the courage he has displayed in representing their interests rather than going the easy way of rubber-stamping for acclaim elsewhere.

He will go to the special session with the best wishes for success from the entire population of his district, whose thousands know he will be their dainties and courage in the future as in the past—Palm Beach Post.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

From all this argument going on over the "Hobo Express" one might be led to believe that the state of Florida this season is attracting no one but tramps and bums.

There is no serious and peace-loving men are more than justified in viewing it with alarm and taking steps to meet the problem, but if we continue to howl about it in the public prints with front page stories in black faced headlines we will frighten off a lot of timid souls who had planned to visit us as first class paid customers.

During the last few years Florida has been making a remarkable comeback. It is the bright spot of the nation and the whole blundered United States is beginning to realize it.

Advertising has its penalties as well as its advantages, and opportunity attracts the unfortunate as well as the prosperous. With every indication pointing to the greatest tourist season in Florida's history, it is to be expected that thousands seeking employment or easy money are coming down early to avoid the rush.

Already state highways are carrying heavier motor travel than at the same period last year. Florida travel agencies report a 25% increase in business although the peak tourist influx is not expected until after the holidays. Hotel and apartment occupancy is at record advance reservations than at any time since the boom.

Travel by boat, train, bus and automobile is at a record. To tax the facilities of transportation companies in spite of the fact that considerable improvement has been made in schedules and equipment.

Unsettled conditions in Europe have the Orient will tend to curtail foreign travel and will serve to drive additional thousands southward this winter.

The normal population of Florida should be more than doubled during the next sixty days, and while many who come here will be desirable and seeking employment their number will be infinitesimal compared to the vast hordes of unemployed simple funds who come to enjoy our kindly climate—who seek rest and recreation and are able and willing to pay.

In the November issue of the "Commentator" Nina Wilcox Putnam favors Florida with a splendid feature article entitled "Florida Comes Back." In her own inimitable style, Nina tells of the amazing development and activity that has taken place in the state since the hectic boom period.

Her story, which is a straightforward review of facts, is hope and blab, is bound to impress thousands and awake new interest on the part of investors and business men. It is a story which has taken place in the state since the hectic boom period.

Another thing people in other states are just beginning to realize that the Homestead Exemption is going to stick and that homes to the value of $5,000 are free of all taxation other than those assessed for special improvements; and a growing number of our visitors this winter will build or purchase a permanent home here.

Revenue the state might lose through such exemption will be more than made up by increased returns on intangible taxes, for folks able to buy or build homes usually have substantial intangible interests which Comptroller Lee is becoming more and more adept in ferreting out.

January Floods Reveal Strength of Red Cross

Aid Given 1,052,000 Persons Through Set-Up By Agency

The elasticity and scope of Red Cross disaster work is shown in a recent report on Red Cross relief measures during the unparalleled Ohio-Mississippi Valley flood of this year.

At the launch of the emergency Red Cross relief efforts were established in 187 inundated counties and in 116 counties where refugees were cared for, the report stated. Eight regional headquarters offices controlled the 324 county offices, and were in turn supervised by the National Red Cross in Washington, D. C.

A statistical summary of persons aided by the organization indicated that the floods constituted the greatest out-patient emergency ever faced by the nation. The Red Cross gave some form of assistance to 1,052,000 persons, women and children.

A Red Cross rescue fleet of 4,000 boats was organized, according to the report. Emergency hospitals established totaled 200 and 4,000 nurses were assigned to flood duty. In more than 1,000 refugee centers the victims of the flood were sheltered, clothed and fed. Through the Red Cross medical-facility program and the work of public health agencies, 100,000 people were vaccinated against sickness was kept to normal for the time of year in all inundated areas.

Because of its disaster experience the Red Cross was directed by the President of the United States, who is also president of the Red Cross, to coordinate the effort of all federal flood relief groups. Government and Red Cross officials met daily at the Red Cross headquarters building in Washington to plan relief measures and prevent duplication of effort.

"We were fortunate in having 56 years of disaster relief experience to call upon in meeting the emergency," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the Red Cross, said.

It was found that 57,000 families composed of 425,000 persons had to leave their homes and seek refuge. The Red Cross emergency and rehabilitation assistance was as follows: rescue, transportation and shelter for 62,000 families; food, clothing and other maintenance for 102,000 families; building and repair for 27,000 families; household goods for 26,000 families; medical, nursing and sanitation help for 15,000 families; agricultural rehabilitation for 10,000 families; other occupational aid for 3,000 families and other types of relief for 4,000 families.

"Credit for this largest, peace-time relief operation in the history of the nation must go to the American people who contributed a Red Cross relief fund of more than $50,000,000," Admiral Grayson said.

During the year the Red Cross aided the victims of 105 other disasters in 35 states, Alaska and the District of Columbia. The Red Cross financed the majority of these relief operations from money contributed through memberships during the annual Roll Call last November. It is only in case of large-scale disasters that a national drive for relief funds is made.

This year the Roll Call is from November 11th to the 25th. The Red Cross seeks a greater membership to meet its disaster relief and other service obligations during 1938. Last year Red Cross chapters gave vital help to 120,000 needy families.

Red Cross Replaces Farm Family Losses

The Red Cross have agricultural rehabilitation to 10,116 farm families following the severe eastern floods of last year. Types of aid included feed seed, livestock, farm tools and machinery and other items essential to agricultural productivity. More than $292,000 was expended by the organization to meet these requirements.

In addition to occupational assistance, rural families hard hit by the flood waters were rescued, clothed, fed and sheltered by the Red Cross. Where it was necessary the Red Cross repaired and rebuilt out-buildings, barns and other structures. Medical and nursing care were provided and homes refurnished.

Red Cross agricultural rehabilitation benefited nearly three times as many families as received all other types of Red Cross occupational rehabilitation combined.

State Welfare Board Has Various Duties Other Than Old Age Pension

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 11.—(FNS)—Although old age assistance has caught the public imagination and is a major activity, it is only part and parcel of the State Welfare program. Clayton C. Coddington, state welfare commissioner, pointed out in an interview here today.

"The State Welfare Board functions in more than 15 separate administrative capacities and is a liaison agency without which Florida's needy could not obtain millions of dollars of federal funds."

"Bringing big money into the state are the CCC, with annual payments of $2,000,000 to Florida, recruits and their dependents; the surplus commodities division, which last year distributed commodities valued at $914,000 and clothing valued at $487,000, and which this year will distribute commodities and clothing valued at $1,800,000; the children's welfare program, which brings in $25,000 annually that the state is required to match; old age assistance and assistance to the blind, with federal funds to match the state's appropriation of $5, 400,000; possible aid for dependent children, for which the legislature appropriated $400,000 and which the government will match on the basis of one dollar for two.

"Florida could obtain none of this federal relief without complying with federal regulations through the enactment of social security legislation and the creation of the state welfare board or similar agency. Those who would criticize administrative costs should first inform themselves as to the scope of the program," Coddington stated.

Major activities of the State Welfare board as listed by him are: Old Age Assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, commodity distribution, WPA certification, NYA certification, CCC certification, child welfare, investigations for state institutions, investigations for crippled children's commission, investigation for NYA scholarships, state and city agency, out-of-town inquiries, service to families not receiving aid, and other welfare activities. In addition, the board acts as administrator for the old FERA.

Gigantic Swindle Is Unearthed By Officials of Post Office Department

Postmaster General James A. Farley announced this week that, through the efforts of the post office department, another gigantic swindle carried on through use of the United States mails, which netted its operators approximately one million dollars and numbered among its victims individuals in every state of the Union, Canada, Mexico and Cuba, has been stamped out. It was also pointed out that twenty-four members of various groups emerged in this fraud against the public have been brought to trial and convicted.

This latest swindle to receive the attention of postal inspectors involved the promotion of the mythical "Baker" or "Becker" estates in the State of Pennsylvania, with approximately sixty million dollars in the city and county of Philadelphia. The promoters of this racket represented to their victims that they had indisputable proof of the existence of these estates, which included properties in the very heart of Philadelphia, worth approximately sixty million dollars. In addition, Independence Hall, Franklin Square and the grave of Benjamin Franklin itself, as well as the post office and the United States mint in Philadelphia were included by these promoters as being "Baker's" property. Broad Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the abutments on the Philadelphia side of the Delaware river bridge were, likewise, given as part of the "Baker" estate. Then, to make the proposition more attractive to the intended victims, there were added to the Baker estate eleven thousand acres of valuable coal, lead and zinc lands throughout the State of Pennsylvania.

When You Feel Sluggish (Constipated) "Take a dose or two of Black-Draught. Feel fresh for a week. Work easier, eat, life pleasanter. You are really in fine fettle. Get the best feelings and delicious effect attending constipation."

For fifty years, Black-Draught has helped to bring prompt, refreshing relief from constipation. Thousands of men and women rely on it.

BLACK-DRAUGHT
A GOOD LAXATIVE

Alleged Will Used

A so-called will, dated December 27, 1839, and claimed to have been executed by one Jacob Baker, was used by the promoters of this swindle to obtain money from their victims. The will purported to dispose of the valuable property located in the city of Philadelphia and the mineral lands throughout the state to so-called heirs of Baker. The scheme of some of the groups carrying on the racket was to solicit enough money through the mails and otherwise for the pretended purpose of probating the alleged will. If the person solicited was not a Baker or Becker descendant, there was to be a share of the money to be paid to him in the mythical estate. Other ten or twenty dollars each, in addition to "memberships" with monthly dues.

Inspectors assigned to this work thought it very unusual that an authentic will to such valuable property should remain unprobated for almost one hundred years. Through court proceedings the alleged will was proved to be a forgery. The promoters of the racket caused the paper and the writing thereon to be analyzed by a chemical expert and the expert it was discovered that the paper on which the will was written was not manufactured until about 1880, over forty years after its date. The paper had been artificially aged. The signatures of the witnesses to the will had been forged. It was discovered that the information thus obtained by the inspectors proved beyond a doubt that the promoters were attempting to pass off a forged and spurious instrument to the thousands of persons, who believed and were led to believe they were heirs to a vast estate.

Trace Names As will be in question and representation of the promoters of the racket for property throughout Pennsylvania as part of the alleged inheritance, it became necessary for the inspectors to trace in the records of the name of "Baker" or "Becker" and various companies in which they were interested and owning real estate in the sixty-seven counties of Pennsylvania from 1882 to the present time. Over four hundred days were consumed in this work. The search disclosed that none of the property called for in Jacob Baker or any other Baker at the time it was purported to have been executed. It was further ascertained that there is no vast unsettled and undistributed Baker or Becker estate anywhere in the State of Pennsylvania.

Another false claim of the promoters of this swindle was that Jacob Baker or some other Baker had executed a 99-year lease to one Martin Yalas on property in which most of the buildings in Philadelphia now stand. Another method by which money was obtained from victims of the swindle was in the compilation and sale to them of so-called genealogical charts. Neighbors to whom these traced the ancestors of the victims back to the Baker or Becker of whom they were supposed to be heirs. Charged for in this chart ranged from one to fifty dollars or whatever the traffic would bear.

Memberships Sold Many of the swindlers organized into "Associations," "Leagues," etc. Memberships were sold to victims in every state of the Union, many ranging from one to twenty dollars. This amount, however, was not the limit of loss of any particular individual. When the promoters found one willing, able and ready to pay special attention was given him. Through false and alluring promises he was frequently enticed to part with his cash. The investigation revealed several persons whose contributions amounted to from one to seven thousand dollars apiece.

The inspectors found that the promoters had represented that various banks and trust companies in Philadelphia were holding millions of dollars for "Baker" heirs, which sums were supposed to represent rentals and other collections.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

resulting from the alleged 99-year lease executed by the Baker ancestors years ago. It was discovered by the inspectors that not a penny was held by any of the financial institutions mentioned in the literature of the promoters.

Thousands of Letters

During the trials of the promoters of this swindle, inspectors produced thousands of letters containing false representation and promises flanked by them to their victims. It was claimed that Jacob Baker's a colorful or colorful man in the history of the United States for his military services he was given valuable land grants in the Revolutionary War and Navy Department that there was never a Jacob Baker from Pennsylvania who served in a commissioned officer in the Army and Navy during the Revolution. Furthermore, no land grants were made by the United States Government to any captain, colonel or other Baker in Pennsylvania on account of such alleged service.

Supposed Vast Sums

Other inspectors represented that the Treasury Department was holding vast sums for distribution to the heirs of Baker. The inspectors proved that there were no funds in the Treasury. It was also claimed that the promoters of the racket that millions of dollars were available for distribution to the purported heirs of Baker as a result of the Federal Savings and Loan Act. This was proved to be false in every particular.

During the investigation, inspectors discovered that the promoters of this swindle were attempting to pass off a forged and spurious instrument to the thousands of persons, who believed and were led to believe they were heirs to a vast estate.

Trace Names As will be in question and representation of the promoters of the racket for property throughout Pennsylvania as part of the alleged inheritance, it became necessary for the inspectors to trace in the records of the name of "Baker" or "Becker" and various companies in which they were interested and owning real estate in the sixty-seven counties of Pennsylvania from 1882 to the present time. Graves Is Speaker

To University Group

(By James W. Beardsley) GAINESVILLE, Fla., Thursday, November 11.—The Rev. John Temple Graves, III, one of the south's foremost journalists and artists spoke to the members of the Florida student body and faculty in the University auditorium, although this is usually a freshmen assembly, that many years without any return or possibility of reward.

The Minister of Christ should be an example to all believers. I am, 412. That example should be in conversation, in word, in charity, in spirit, in faith, and in purity. We all just naturally expect the minister to be a good man in all that he does and says. And the Minister of Christ should give himself wholeheartedly to the work of the ministry. He should read, thereby laying a foundation for the other two tasks he is expected to perform; that is, instruction, that influences the life of the hearer, and to teaching, that influence that is directed toward the mind of the listeners. His teaching should be with authority; knowing that the Word of God is his guide. He should make every effort to transmit the Scripture to the people among whom he labors. He should, constantly grow in Grace and knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. For after all is said, the preacher should never be able to lead his flock farther than he himself has gone.

The minister of Christ should be no quitter. That he should stick to his post though he be under his feet. Perseverance is one of the most necessary characteristics of a successful minister of Christ. He is to take the hard ship with a smile. And all is not to be a bed of roses for the minister. He is to have his times of loneliness, and temptations as well as other believers. And when all others are weakening, the minister is to hold his own. He is to buck the line though every indication shows defeat. He must live right, serve right, smile right, and preach right. He must be instant in season, and out of season, and preach the word. That which God has given him for the purpose of stirring up the minds of the peoples of the earth, must not be neglected. It must be used; even when it is much and lasting good may come to the church, because of his being called to the Ministry of Jesus Christ.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday, November 14th

THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER

1 Tim. 4:8-16. II Tim. 2:1-4.

By S. T. BEARD

The lesson text for our Sunday school lesson found this week in the book of First Timothy Chapter four, and Second Timothy Chapter four, and Monday, and they're supposed to be able to get the gift that is in them, at 1st Tim. 4:16. Subject: The Pundamental Virtues which mark the life of every Christian Minister if he is most effectively to do the greatest work for which God has called him.

It was necessary in Paul's day, and still is, that Christian ministers should have the people of the faith to whom they appear. He should know the truth, and knowing it, it is his imperative duty to testify for truth. It is his high and noble calling to declare sound doctrine, expose error, and to denounce fiction and myths that are marred under the banner of religion. There is nothing more dangerous to this day than false religious teaching. The minister must guard his flock against it by sound teaching and solemn warning.

There's a point in error. And there is nutriment in truth. There is strength and stamina in living on the principles of Biblical faith and teaching. In such a man can be strong through the nourishment of the milk and meat of the Word.

So far as "Old wives' fables," we should reject no matter if they do claim to be biblical, and claim to be religious. Let them alone, and reject them. And let the brethren to bewitch of them.

"A Minister of Christ should be an example to all believers." As men train for the professional and industrial life, so Paul urges Timothy to train for the religious life. These points are for every young man who wants to live his life where it will count for the most good. There are two things that are essential to the success of a minister: First Service. In almost all phases of our business life, we are required to give service, that we may be of the utmost service later on. Training in Godliness makes life worth while, and gives us the power to God and to our fellowmen.

Second, Salvation. This is a pure word, worthy of universal acceptance. It is the message of our telling, and serving. Christ is a Savior sufficient for the salvation of all men, but efficient only to those who believe. So our saved life here on earth is the prelude to the saved body and soul in heaven for ever.

The Minister of Christ should be an example to all believers. I am, 412. That example should be in conversation, in word, in charity, in spirit, in faith, and in purity. We all just naturally expect the minister to be a good man in all that he does and says. And the Minister of Christ should give himself wholeheartedly to the work of the ministry. He should read, thereby laying a foundation for the other two tasks he is expected to perform; that is, instruction, that influences the life of the hearer, and to teaching, that influence that is directed toward the mind of the listeners. His teaching should be with authority; knowing that the Word of God is his guide. He should make every effort to transmit the Scripture to the people among whom he labors. He should, constantly grow in Grace and knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. For after all is said, the preacher should never be able to lead his flock farther than he himself has gone.

Perseverance is one of the most necessary characteristics of a successful minister of Christ. He is to take the hard ship with a smile. And all is not to be a bed of roses for the minister. EXCELLENT FILM AT PRINCE ON SUNDAY, MON.

For the first time since music has been heard from the screen a film chorus has been taught to sing out.

It's an all-male chorus that does the singing, and the trouble is its members sing too well. They're the Gladiators, the members of the Gladiators' "Captains' Court," coming to the Prince Theatre Sunday and Monday, and they're supposed to be able to sing, untuned, untuned. But almost every one of them has done years of professional singing in his time. So, for the sake of accuracy, a few blue notes were thrown in deliberately.

There's Charley Grapewin, in the role of Kipling's "Uncle Sam," and Charley once upon a time in the lead role of one of the biggest movie-making musical comedies of all time, "The Awakening of the Nation."

There's Ralph Bushman, who came to the picture from Eleanor Powell's "Born to Dance," in which he was a singing actor. There's Dave Thurnby, who got his big start in the revue "One Damn Thing After Another," at the London Hippodrome. TILLMAN TOWNS

Miss Margaret Towns of Towns, Ga., and Frank Tillman of Canal Point were married in Okeechobee on Sunday, November 7. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Towns of Towns, Ga., and is a graduate of Lumber City, Ga., high school. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Tillman of the Canal Point and is employed by the sugar company. They will make their home in Canal Point.

PERSONALS

Willie Bowers of Winter Haven has returned to his home after visiting relatives here.

John Campbell has gone to Clewiston where he will operate a watch repair shop.

Mrs. F. M. Goetz is visiting relatives and friends in Fort Myers.

Lynn Shirley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Shirley, is ill at the home of her parents.

Mrs. A. Hansen, who has been the guest of her daughter, and grandson, Mrs. Sara Triabie and son, Road, 22, from West Palm Beach to Fort Myers, will be of five-year and termite-proof construction as well as being highly wind resistant.

Plans are from the board of L. Phillips Clark of West Palm Beach and in so far as possible, local labor will be employed in the construction work. To fit local conditions and be architecturally adapted to surrounding structures the British Colonial motif will predominate. The structure will be of steel framing, adequately braced for wind stresses, the outer walls being of cement brick veneer and concrete piers to water-proof and reinforcing material on the steel frame; inner walls will be of gypsum with final wall covering adapted to the use to which the rooms will be placed.

In discussing the new hotel, F. Deane Duff, president of Clewiston Hotels company, said, "In keeping with the growth of Clewiston and the increased demand for hotel accommodations that will unquestionably follow the completion of Highway 26, the capacity of the new Inn will be one-quarter greater than that supplied by the Inn recently destroyed by fire. The location of the new hotel on the public square should prove of great convenience to the traveling public."

"The encouragement given to small farmers by United States Sugar corporation to place part of their farms in sugar-cane and thus be assured of a staple crop, will undoubtedly add further to the growth of Clewiston. The growing appreciation of the fine fishing in Lake Okeechobee is causing greater demands for hotel accommodations. The Clewiston Hotels company, a subsidiary of Clewiston Realty and Development corporation, through the cooperation of United States Sugar corporation, will give Clewiston finer hotel accommodations than are available in any city of comparable size in Florida."

The Yvonne's Missionary society of Pahoekoe Methodist church began its observance of the week of prayer at the joint meeting of both churches Monday evening at the auditorium. Mrs. Fred L. Martin was in charge of the program. The theme for discussion was "Serving Him."

The following numbers were features of the program: Talk, "Adoration of the Wives," Mrs. E. G. Kilpatrick, Jr.; "Defied and Denied," Mrs. C. A. Shive; "Serving Him," Mrs. Browning Beach. A playlet, entitled "At a Quarter to Three," was presented, with Mrs. Frank Rozelle, Mrs. W. K. Jorgenson and Mrs. W. H. Willis taking parts. Special musical numbers were presented and prayers were offered by Mrs. W. H. Lale and Mrs. Martin. Mrs. R. J. Schroder read the scripture.

The week of prayer observance will be concluded Wednesday night at the midweek prayer service, when Mrs. R. J. Schroder will have charge of the program. Special music will feature the program and at the conclusion the sacrament will be administered.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. Fred L. Martin, chairman; Mrs. L. L. Shirley and Mrs. R. J. Schroder. The regular joint business meeting which was scheduled for last Monday will be conducted on the fourth Monday instead of the circle meeting. The annual election of officers will take place at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Parker and family were recent visitors of friends in West Palm Beach.

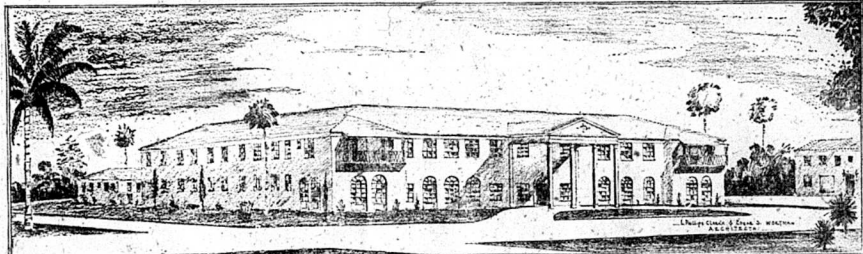

Marcus C. Fagg, superintendent of the Children's Home society in Jacksonville, was in Pahoekoe Monday.

Miss Ida Mae Mullis of Georgia is the house guest of her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Mullis, here.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Smith and son of Tennessee have arrived in Pahoekoe, where they will reside. They are occupying one of the cottages in the Thomas subdivision.

Miss Elizabeth Stuckey left Monday for Miami where she will spend some time with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. May.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jones spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burnett in West Palm Beach.

Ground was broken during the past week for foundations for a new Clewiston Inn, containing 80 rooms. On Sunday evening, September 19, 1937, the old Clewiston Inn was completely destroyed by fire and has resulted in a serious shortage in hotel accommodations, which is aggravated by the approach of the sugar harvest season in the Everglades.

The new hotel, being built for Clewiston Hotels company, will face the Public Square and abut on the Sugarland highway, State Road 22, from West Palm Beach to Fort Myers, and will be of five-year and termite-proof construction as well as being highly wind resistant.
